

Theme: Language & Communication

Name: Ali Khanahmadi Zenouz

Interviewers: Susan Fohr and Anna Richard

Interviewee: Ali Khanahmadi Zenouz

Date of Interview: 2016/11/25

Location: Textile Museum of Canada

Length of full Interview: 34:40 + 9:52

When I arrive here, I try to communicate with the people and I take part in the LINC [Language Instruction for Newcomers to Canada] class. In LINC class, because all immigrants take part in it, the same problems make them to communicate with each other, to make them to talk, and this talking makes them learn more English, more and more. When my daughter started going to school, I see the way that she used to learn French and English because she's going to the French school. Right now, she could talk French, English and Persian, the three language in the same time. For near three months, she didn't say anything; just hearing, listening, and after that she started to talk. In the beginning, she starts completely wrong, tell everything that she likes, but it is the way that anybody who want to learn a new language must pass it. Talk—talking, right or wrong, talk, just talk.

Total time: 1:47